When The World Stopped Turning, We Didn't.

Somehow, the timing of my task of writing the mouthpiece always coincides with the season of gifting and giving, of lights and love. I simply love this season between Diwali and Christmas. The brutal rains relent and recede so that we can welcome the autumn colours. Autumn reminds us to share, show compassion, erase darkness and welcome light.

So, I write with the love that fuels my work every day and every night.

It appears that The Washington Post had asked its readers to describe 2020 in one word or phrase. The winning word was 'Exhausting'. Nothing could be truer than this. Although I decided to remain absolutely positive about the strikingly, conspicuously, unique experience we all had during the pandemic, it was also truly fatiguing, frightening, relentless and disturbing.

The world had stopped in its tracks, but we could not. We did not. Both street and pet animals had to be fed and given access to medical care. We also had to cater to working animals who were suddenly unemployed as their owners' earnings dried up. So while I write with love, I also write with enthusiasm, with which we infused our staff to help them carry on fearlessly and ceaselessly as the world struggled in this fractured and challenging time.

Once we better grasped the implications of this pandemic, we had to revamp our timetable entirely. From day one of the lockdown, we have never shut down our services even for a day. For the first few weeks, we halted our ambulance services, as we did not want to expose our staff to the contaminated zones till we understood the severity of the pandemic. We staggered our staff schedules, while the ones who attended, volunteered to work at a stretch for multiple shifts to ensure that not a single animal in need was turned away. Such personnel were also granted staggered leaves as rest periods. All along, we reimbursed all our staff with their full salaries along with two bonuses as a token of gratitude for their services during the difficult times. In addition, we also arranged for our vehicles to pick up and drop off our staff to and from destinations as far away as Asangaon, Kalyan, Panvel & Diva. We did this to protect our staff from the risks of contracting the virus. Moreover, we also provided free meals for our staff during their stay at the hospital.

We set out to procure Essential Movement passes for our staff, as well as for the 100 + volunteers who took to the roads to ensure that street animals did not go hungry. We collaborated with local vets for cases which could not be brought to the hospital. The Medical officer of the Municipal Corporation volunteered to offer sessions on hygiene and safety to our staff. Three members of our Governing Body volunteered to spend every day of the week with the staff, to offer them moral support in the paralyzing situation.

We continued all aspects of our work, albeit at a slower pace in the first few months. It was amazing to see animal lovers and our staff in sync, collectively reach out to hundreds of animals in need.

That made me reflect on a very hopeful fact – this pandemic was not associated only with words like despair, separation, confusion, loneliness, and deconstruction. It also brought to life words like compassion, resilience, gratitude, responsibility, and readjustment.

So in answer to a frequently asked question – 'what did you achieve in 2020-2021?', I would say, we achieved a Team Spirit like never before. We saw tolerance reach its peak. We learnt to adapt to rollercoaster situations. And we did all this with something which was always a part and parcel of our philosophy – Gratitude. Four of our staff came back from the gates of death, and some staff who have worked with us for many years were forced to migrate overnight. Through all of it, our Mission – 'to serve our animals at any cost'-remained uncompromised. Our organization remained invigorated energized and centred.

Reflecting on the past year, I continue to count my blessings at having witnessed the altruistic dedication of our supporters, our staff and the overarching community of animal lovers, rescuers and carers. How fortunate the animals are, to have the friendship of such noble souls. So, with gratitude, we walk into the Giving Season. To give back to society what it gave us - moral support, financial aid or logistical help. And through it all, we continue to keep our mission uncompromised –Service to Animals.

In Gratitude

Happy Endings, New Beginnings

The pandemic officially has come to an end, with minimum cases and deaths being reported. What a breathtaking one and a half years we witnessed! Through this turbulence, we were able to sustain all our animals with nourishing food and care with the dynamic back up of our supporters and staff. All our staff who were afflicted by the virus directly or indirectly - have come back to work with us. Although social distancing and personal hygiene will be the norm for the future, and we will implement these norms strictly within our premises, it is definite that now we have a clearer picture of the pandemic and are competent enough to mould our activities around any exigency that we face in the future. A Happy Ending indeed !!

Thane SPCA has been providing animal welfare services in Thane, and its neighbouring districts for more than 19 years. When we established ourselves, there were only a handful of animal organisations working, most of the institutions closed down years ago. But, we continue caring for thousands of animals each year, treating severe wounds and illnesses, operating to control the population, rectifying physical defects surgically, finding new forever homes for the abandoned ones and fighting for their legal rights. Our work receives no Government funding, thus relying 100% on our Community Changemakers to support our work.

Beginning of 2022 will see the culmination of a major change process that we have been going through silently – that of changing our name. The process was unduly lengthened because of the pandemic, and the documentation process has recently picked up pace. We are hoping that we will receive our new name by the end of the Financial Year. A new beginning indeed, without any compromises on our Values.

We value this opportunity to share with all our stakeholders, through this Annual Report, a comprehensive summary of our work in 2020 – 2021, and our aspirations for 2021-2022. This report will show you that your donations were used for the purpose that it was entrusted to us, It will give you a perception into our work. Because you share our vision to give animals a second chance. Because every life is precious. Reflecting on my 19th year as the Vice President, I continue to be humbled by the dedication demonstrated by our Management and Staff. And I think - how fortunate the animals have been to be served by them.

Our Team

World NGO day is celebrated annually on 27th February to honour and acknowledge the hard work done by NGOs to create positive changes in society. In reality it is a commemoration of the staff who make this possible.

In every organisation, large or small, it is the staff members who play the most vital role in running the institution successfully. They are the organisation's most important resource, yet they are the most under-appreciated and unsung.

The synergy at Thane SPCA is entirely credited to its amazing staff members. While the directions come from the Executive Committee headed by Debashish Majumdar, it is their vivacity, their dedication and their prowess that helps us in achieving our Mission everyday. Attending OPD patients amidst torrential rains and standing in calf deep flood water, or exposing themselves to the animal loving community during the pandemic, putting their own safety at risk, they are the reason for our exponential growth.

So, we decided to dedicate this year's Annual Report to our magical staff, whose functions are viewed as perfunctory routine, which seems to hold no intrinsic value. Yet, in reality we acknowledge that it is our staff who really create and shape the organisations healthcare and customer protocols and policies, steer the institution through calamities, they drive innovation and are the natural ambassadors of the institution.

Service is hardwired into the fabric of the social organisations like ours. We simply could not stand aside and watch lives disintegrate during the pandemic. In fact, the pandemic was an opportunity to prove our mettle. So, despite being strapped of resources at times, despite the pandemic baring its fangs, our work went on uninterrupted – be it rescuing a Golden Jackal, or hand rearing baby Rhesus monkeys, bringing back to life a rooster from its death bed, patiently waiting for a year and half for a chronic wound to heal on Munnabhai, the cat, or completing a 3 hour surgery to extract a 6 kilo tumour from a pet dog. It was all in a day's work.

Aranyani

At the end of 2019, we had shared with you, our plans for a Wildlife Transit Centre. We were on the lookout for a space where wild animals and birds could be kept for longtime rehabilitation before releasing back into nature.

For this purpose we realised the importance of collaborative work, and we joined hands with our long time partner RAWW and a new friend ASHWAMEDH PRATISHTHAN, to start this project. We named our project ARANYANI - The Goddess of Forests.

Despite the labour and material supply crunch in the market, we decided to go ahead with the construction and enrichment of the cages and the Caretakers living quarters from the month of November 2020. The living quarter was divided into two parts, one for the care taker family to live in, the other for guests and volunteers to stay whenever they visit. Kitchenettes and wash rooms were put in place, and the store was stocked with food for the wild animals. Every piece of furniture was donated by our supporters. Avinash Harad, who heads Ashwamedh Pratisthan did a brilliant job of liaising with the local Forest Department and the Collectors office. RAWW put in their heart and soul into the rescue, Rehabilitation and Release of the wild animals. In the coming years, we intend to expand the scope of work there, praying the socio economic situation becomes healthier in the coming months.

Our heartfelt thanks to SPARSH Foundation for their contribution in the construction of the initial enclosures, to Nimesh Sumati for the construction of the approach road and to Arun Sheth for his advice during the entire set up of the project

Gratitude

Donor support makes the ultimate difference in our work, which receives no government funding or practical acknowledgement. Many times we are asked why we do not depend on Government funding. Simply said, charitable giving is an act of generosity and kindness springing from a bond with the cause that the donor supports. This makes funding unrestricted and flexible. Honestly, to sustain our operations, we need the flexibility to respond to dynamic needs of the community that we serve. And that is not all. Donors support our passion to fulfil our mission. They keep our organisation effective, accountable, and ethical by making us accountable to them.

Our entire work stems from the generous community we are thrilled to serve. Through all the ups and downs of the last year, this annual report shows that our Mission remained clear and uncompromised. Supported by the generosity of individuals and groups, we have maintained our organisational integrity and have used the donations dedicated for the purpose of improving animal welfare. Your gifts allowed us to be innovative, provide high quality services, and sustain our work when other resources were unavailable.

Once again last year, a huge number of people contributed to the success of our work. We are indebted to them all.

Grants

With gratitude we acknowledge grants from Sharda Cropchem Ltd and 10F A India Pvt Ltd. Your gifts played a crucial role. We feel very blessed to have had the opportunity to apply for your grants-in-aid and we greatly appreciate your support which helped bring medical and surgical relief to afflicted animals.

Gifts in Kind

Cleaning agents, regular food items like rice, dal, fruits, vegetables, grains, fodder, newspaper, towels - the importance of items needed for the daily functioning of an animal hospital cannot be over stated. Our sincere thanks to Rajesh and Bhavini Shah, Chandra Jayachandran, Pinky Khatri and Uday Shah for always making these items appear like miracles, before we know it.

Corporate Support

Corporate responsibility is not an exotic fancy anymore. Increasingly, big companies are realising how their partnership can uplift lives and improve the world. It has become an increasingly mature concept and we have been lucky to have the support of Kalpataru, Greatwhite Global, Rachna Credit Capital Pvt Ltd, Securitrans India Pvt Ltd and DHL Express extend their support to us through their CSR funds.

Our Patrons

Patrons play the role of a parent . They are the highest source of support necessary to an organisation since its nascent stages and through its maturity. Our Patrons, without who we would not be where we are today.
