Since I was a child, I have always felt an innate connection with animals of all kinds. From dogs to horses, their presence in my life has been a constant source of joy and comfort. They have bestowed upon me an unconditional love that knows no boundaries of species, and it is this love that has motivated me to become a pet parent.

Throughout my journey as a pet parent, I have made a conscious choice to rescue animals rather than buying them. To me, a family member cannot be purchased; they are meant to be embraced and nurtured.

4 AWESOME TIPS HOW YOUR LIFESTYLE CHOICES CAN INDIRECTLY HELP ANIMALS

>>> A NEW WAVE OF KINDNESS

Most people I meet nowadays claim to be an animal lover. This is such a welcome shift from the previous generation, caring for animals is not considered elite or exotic anymore. Our generation has proved that this should be a way of life.

But how can I be an animal lover if I cannot have the time to feed a stray, or volunteer at the local shelter ? The good news is, there are day-to-day actions we can take that have a real and positive impact on animals. Through these actions, you graduate from being an animal lover to an animal advocate.

- Live cruelty free - Abstain from products that are tested on animals. This will impact a multitude of unknown animals who face severe cruelty in laboratories.
- Reduce your meat consumption - If it is difficult for you to become a vegetarian immediately, reduction is the most effective mantra. By striving to go meat free, even for 2 days a week, you will save the lives of hundreds of sentient beings.
- Useless plastic - A brilliant pun, but plastic clogs our landfills and kill our stray animals, pollute our oceans killing a million of marine animals and birds annually. Carry your own shopping bag and water bottle, refuse plastic straws and disposable cutlery, whenever possible - avoid dining out, it generates tonnes of disposable garbage, stop celebrating with balloons - the pieces rubber is hazardous to nature, request your office to use less paper - it will save trees which are home to thousands of birds who die homeless every day.
- Recycle - Every city now has the option of recycling centers. If your administration is not following segregation of waste, please take the effort of doing so yourself. You save the soil, you save animals that sustain themselves within the soil.

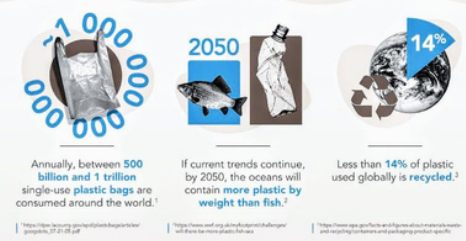

A little effort is all that it will take for you to gift an animal it's life - somewhere.

Best , Shreyasi

>>> BAHADUR

Grievously wounded and compromised, both externally and internally, we were almost sure this was a lost case. With no medical history, such cases are difficult to treat when the vets have a small time window for diagnosis. But as they say, Where There Is A Will.... He had the will to live, and our team didn't give up. Bahadur went back to his Home in the forests, fully fit and strong to take on the wild wild future

>>> WILDLIFE CONCERNS

A total of 56 black kites were taken into custody by the Mumbai Range Forest on 11/04/2023. Thane CPCA was requested to do a complete medical evaluation of the birds and certify their health status. Dr. Shardul Salvi, our wildlife surgeon spent 4 hours checking each bird and giving them specific treatment. Out of the 56, only 8 were fit to be released.

8 were infected with trichomoniasis infection, 13 had chronic wing injuries.

3 were in moulting phase, while 10 were found with malunion of fractured bones; mainly of radius and ulna. 13 were found with chronic open fractures of the wing. 1 was found dead in the cage. Since manpower was scarce with the FD, Dr. Salvi was assisted by Indraneel Roy and Atul Kaningdhawaj, though this doesn't fit into their job description at all.

Issues that need to be addressed: All these birds were seized from a private residence. Why?

Information protocol was not followed with the FD. Why?

If you happen to rescue a wildlife, please intimate the local FD in writing within 48 hrs, and retain the acknowledged copy of the letter. . If they don't have place to rehabilitate them and want you to continue housing and treating them, insist on a letter from them stating the same.

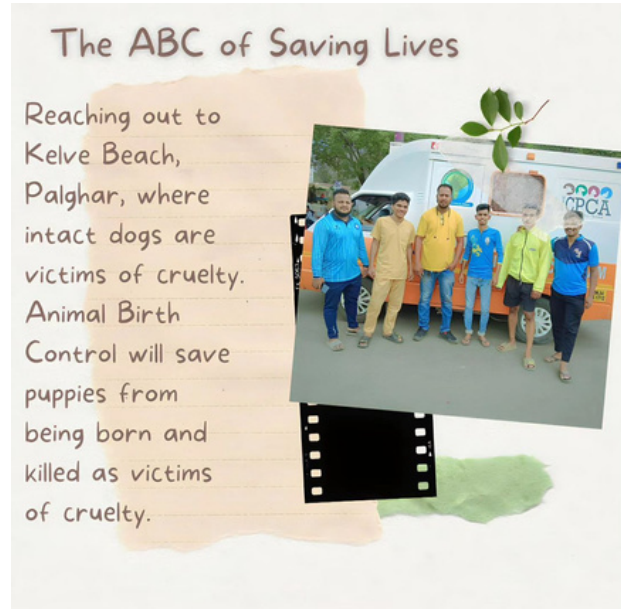

Maintain the paper work. Stay clean. Stay safe . But don't stop rescuing and reaching out to animals in need - domestic or wild !!

>>> THE ABC OF SAVING LIVES

Palghar is an expansive district, with beautiful beaches populated by free roaming dogs, who have little to no health care access. They forage for leftover food from tourists and propagate regularly. On request of our long term volunteer Jayesh Padhye, and with back up of CHAL USA, our long time supporters for ABC-AR drive , we started to pick up the dogs in lots of 8 and 9 at a time. As is our protocol, they were given complete health check, with blood profiling before the surgeries and vaccinated before release. The only way we can ensure their long and happy life.

>>> REPORT CRUELTY FEARLESSLY

Though he was reported as a burns case caused by some humans, we never could investigate as to why or who did this, as the reporters refused to divulge the details.

But no information could have decreased the pain Magic went through - though he went through the treatment with a smiling face.

If you witness any cruelty, please report it, even unanimously. It is necessary to curb cruelty.

>>> UROLITH EXTRACTION

A Shih Tzu presented to us revealed the presence of multiple uroliths. Cystotomy was carried out by Dr. Shardul Salvi, supported by Technical Assistant Pradeep Gaikwad, to remove the bladder stones, which were made of calcium oxalate crystals.

Breeds most commonly diagnosed with struvite and calcium oxalate bladder stones included Shih Tzus, Miniature Schnauzer, Bichon Frise, Lhasa Apso, and Yorkshire Terrier.

So, if you see any of the symptoms like Inappetance, hematuria and difficulty while urinating in an animal, rush to your nearest vet.

>>> DHEER

Dheer was burnt all over his body. Named so because of the valiant fight he put in for a remarkable recovery, he was released in 3 weeks time.

We acknowledge the very hard work put in by our Medical and Support team. And as long as humans continue to encroach into wildlife habitat, there will be no end to man animal conflict.

DESPITE ALL ODDS

The heat wave was uniformly unsettling all over the world this year. Since 1992, this weather change has resulted in 24,000 gazetted deaths. Serious health hazards have come to the fore, in young and old alike. In 2023 itself, 1156 forest fires resulting directly from the heat, were reported in India. Understandably, this deadly heat wave, which is expected to worsen with every coming year, will affect more and more animals around the world. From tiny insects and flies, to the largest mammals, all will suffer. Collective action is crucial, but before that we need to educate ourselves about climate change, and take part in mitigating the disaster. There are thousands of articles and organisations who are fighting this problem as well as giving solutions - from individuals to policy makers. Each of us will have something to learn from them and implement whatever we can - at our homes and places of work. This is not a matter that can be set aside for our future generations- for if we do not take any action today, there will be no future generation left to take action.
